

Principles and Types of Language Testing

Based on Douglas Brown's Book –For English Teachers

:According to Brown, practicality in a test means .^۱

A) It must be valid

B) It must be easy and cheap to administer

C) It must be reliable takers-D) It must have multiple test

Answer: B

:Construct validity refers to .^۲

Measuring what it claims to measure

?What does “face validity” refer to .^۳

The test’s appearance of being valid to stakeholders

?s' language level at the beginning of a courseWhat type of test is used to assess student .^۴

Placement test

?Which principle focuses on the degree to which a test elicits meaningful performance .^۵

Authenticity

:A test that gives consistent results over time is considered .^۶

Reliable

:testing would most likely include Integrative .^۷

C) Cloze tests or dictations

?Brown emphasizes the importance of “interactive language testing.” What does this mean .^۸

writing-Tests involving interaction of skills like reading

:is point test-One example of a discrete .^۹

choice test-Grammar multiple

?What is the primary aim of an achievement test .^{۱۰}

To measure course content learning